

From: Dim-skies
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 1/25/02 2:34am
Subject: aol vs. microsoft

Dears Sirs,

I think the AOL lawsuit is just another attempt to bleed a successful business, when you can't compete. I feel that a monopoly is when the consumer has nowhere else to turn. If I don't like my cable, or phone company, where do I go? Granted, other OS's aren't as pervasive, but they are available. That is hardly the same as "not available".

AOL paid big money for a loser, and now they want help. What has happened to America? This is just another shameful example running to the Government for help for everything, including stupidity.

Sincerely,
Tom Wong
Port Orchard, WA 98366